

POLITICS CHARGE IN SEWAGE FIGHT

Mohansic Plan Urged Over
Governor's Head, O'Sullivan Says.

STATE WINS DELAY IN INJUNCTION CASE

Architect Pilcher Defends Whitman Idea of Pipe Line to the Hudson.

The question as to whether or not the sewage of the New York Training School for Boys should be dumped into Lake Mohansic, which is on the water shed supplying New York City, was further removed from final decision yesterday, when Justice Keogh, in the Supreme Court at White Plains, granted a ten-day stay in the application for an injunction against the managers of the institution.

Lamar Hardy, Corporation Counsel, who is applying for the injunction, was represented at the hearing by Dr. William J. O'Sullivan. Deputy Attorney General Robert S. Conklin opposed the measure, requesting a ten-day stay on the ground that his chief, Attorney General Woodbury, had received the papers relating to the injunction only yesterday, and was not yet ready to proceed.

Warm debate between the representatives of the city and state ensued the proceeding. Mr. Conklin opened fire by criticizing the application for injunction because it called for a restraining order against awarding the contract rather than against the beginning of actual work on the sewage plant.

"The order calls for an injunction on the ground that the contract may result in a nuisance," he said. "I know of no such law order."

"My friend has evidently no understanding of the conditions of this case," O'Sullivan snapped. "About $300,000 worth of property owned by the city will be destroyed if this contract is let. They now propose to empty sewage into Lake Mohansic, after the Governor has pledged himself to run a pipe line to the Hudson. Political considerations are now trying to run through this plan over his head."

"I assume that all state officers are patriotic and public spirited," Justice Keogh remarked, and then granted a stay for ten days, directing that conditions in regard to the sewage contract should remain the same as they were when the original order was first issued.

State Architect Favors

Whitman Sewage Plan
State Architect Lewis F. Pilcher last night defended the plan approved by Governor Whitman to deal with the effluent from the sewage plants to be constructed at the Mohansic State Hospital and the Yorktown Heights School for Boys.

"The plans call for a sewage plant for the Yorktown Heights School for Boys," explained Mr. Pilcher, "which would carry the effluent into Mohansic lake. The same plans also call for another sewage plant at the Mohansic State Hospital, which is to carry the bacterially free effluent into a nearby pond. As these are in the area of the Croton Lake watershed the metropolis objects, as the waters from Croton Lake are directly lined to New York."

"But it is necessary to construct these two plants under the law in their entirety. Afterward it will be possible to eliminate those two portions of the plan which are intended to carry the effluent from the sewage plants to the bodies of water. Instead of these portions of pipe other pipe conductors will be built, leading from the sewage plants directly into a tunnel pipe which would empty into the Hudson River. This ten-inch pipe will be built within a year or two with money already in hand."

"The money for this big pipe can be obtained from a sum appropriated for the Mohansic State Hospital by the Legislature. About $200,000 will be necessary. First of all, however, it is necessary to obtain the right of way to the Hudson River, which may take as much as a year. Then another month will elapse before the bids are all in. It would take about six months to build such a line.

"When the bids on the sewage plants for the two institutions mentioned above come in the work may be started almost immediately. The work on the two plants will probably be finished at the same time as the work on the pipe line to the Hudson. Then all that would be necessary would be to construct two small pipe lines from the sewage plants to the river pipe line and the system would be complete."

Sewage Plant Campaign May Keep Hospital Shut

The campaign regarding the erection of the sewage disposal plant for the Yorktown Heights Training School and the Mohansic Hospital for the Insane, according to Dr. Hermann M. Biggs, State Commissioner of Health, will do nothing but delay the opening of the latter institution a year if it succeeds. In a statement issued yesterday, Dr. Biggs declared that the campaign was based on a distortion of the facts and that there was an apparent effort to misconstrue Governor Whitman's approval of the plans as a breaking of faith with the city authorities.

Dr. Biggs set forth eight points which he said he thought were generally misunderstood. First, he said, the selection of the sites on the Croton watershed for the two institutions was made six years ago. Plans for the sewage disposal plants were approved by the State Board of Health only after they had been recommended by experts.

Fourth, the Commissioner said, the trunk sewer proposal advanced as a means of preventing the pollution of this city's water supply was dangerous, as a break in the pipe line would result in a nuisance. Fifth, the department approved the pipe line plan only in conjunction with a chlorination plant. Sixth, the approval of the Governor does not change the situation and does not mean that any effluent from the plant will reach this city's water supply. Seventh, no additional appropriation will be necessary to construct the plant, and, finally, there is need for the opening of the Mohansic Hospital to relieve overcrowding here.

Problems dealing with the American mercantile marine were discussed at the opening session of the academy's conference, which was held yesterday afternoon in East Hall at Columbia University. "The Development of American Shipping" was the topic of discussion in the morning, and "American Foreign Trade and Transportation Relations" in the afternoon. Professor Edwin R. A. Seligman, of Columbia, presided at the first session and Professor Henry R. Seager, of Columbia, at the second.

An attack on the La Follette seamen's bill was made by Welding Ring, chairman of the committee on foreign commerce and revenue laws of the Chamber of Commerce. He denounced the bill as one of the most unfortunate ever enacted by Congress.

Mr. Ring advocated the creation of a shipping board somewhat similar to the British Board of Trade, the prompt suspension of the seamen's law or its immediate repeal and the enactment of a new law which would eliminate the objectionable features of the present law, the ending of the agitation for government ownership of merchant vessels and legislation to safeguard investments in shipping.

Bernard H. Baker, of Baltimore, spoke on the "Present Problems of American Shipping." He advocated the appointment of a national merchant marine board, with broad powers and ample appropriations.

Gerard Henderson, editor of "The Harvard Law Review," advocated regulation similar to that exercised by the Interstate Commerce Commission over railroads and a gradually increasing amount of public ownership and operation of steamship lines.

Willard D. Straight and Eugene P. Thomas, president of the United States Steel Products Company, urged government support to the bankers and manufacturers in their efforts to promote foreign trade in China.

FRONTS ON NARCOTIC SALES

Child Welfare Organization Refuses to Indorse Permissive Laws.
Philadelphia, Nov. 12.—Delegates to the sixth annual convention of the American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality, at their session here to-day, adopted a resolution refusing to indorse any law the effect of which will continue the sale of narcotics in any manner.

Recent legislation in many states purporting to regulate the traffic in narcotic and habit-forming drugs, in reality, it is said, exempt from its provisions preparations containing such drugs in small quantities.

HER VISION AROSE ON HOSPITAL COT

Wrote Letters and Sent Presents to Herself—Then Pretended Train Killed Sweetheart.

(By Telegraph to The Tribune.)

Atlanta, Nov. 12.—Three years ago Miss Julia Choate Crumley, daughter of the Rev. Howard Lee Crumley, superintendent of the Baptist Orphan's Home and one of the most prominent ministers in Atlanta, went to Johns Hopkins Hospital, in Baltimore, to undergo an operation. She was a music teacher and popular socially. Apparently her mind was clear.

After three months in Baltimore Miss Crumley returned to Atlanta and told her family that her life had been saved by the physician who attended her. She gave his name as "Dr. Alleyne Hensley," and said that he was a widower with one child and made his home in Quebec, Canada. Some letters postmarked Quebec came to Miss Crumley, with boxes of candy and flowers. She said they were from "the doctor" and one day she announced that they were engaged.

The young woman's love affair was the chief topic of conversation among her friends. About a year later she said the doctor had written her that he was very ill in Baltimore and could not marry her. She said she was going to him. From Baltimore she wrote to her family that she had found him well and happy and that he had pretended to be sick because he did not want to marry her.

Miss Crumley returned to Atlanta apparently heartbroken. But a short time later more letters began to come from Canada, and she spoke of a reconciliation. The wedding date was fixed for November 17 and was so announced in the Atlanta papers. Miss Crumley selected her bridesmaids and her flower girls. She was given teas, parties and showers. She set out for New York last week to complete her trousseau.

Then suddenly she telegraphed her family that "Dr. Alleyne" was killed in a wreck out West; that she was going to Chicago to get his body. Her friends were filled with pity for her shattered romance.

Wednesday Miss Crumley arrived in the city with a coffin. It was taken to H. M. Patterson & Sons, undertakers, and the funeral was set for Thursday afternoon. Wednesday night, surrounded by her family, the girl was questioned by Dr. Bates Block, a nerve specialist. She broke down and confessed all.

"Dr. Alleyne Hensley" was alive only in her imagination; their courtship was pretended; she had written the letters herself; the candy and flowers she had ordered sent to herself and strangers of all sorts; she said, was bought at the public market in Chicago.

Members of the family told the truth to the "mourners." The body to-night is at an undertaker's place, and efforts are being made to find out the unknown man was. The box is a plain pine coffin. His head is bruised and marked, as if he had indeed been in a railroad wreck.

The undertaker refused to state in whose name the certificate of burial was made out. Members of the family refused to talk further, although they frankly admitted the truth of the story. The girl is hysterical.

DEER PLAY ON THE STREETS

Pay Morning Visits to Philippe Manor
—Train Kills Another.

The second deer to be killed within a week by an electric train on the New York Central near William Rockefeller's estate was struck yesterday morning. The carcass was found by the station agent at Philippe Manor. The other deer was killed Monday near the same spot.

Residents of Philippe Manor say that the deer are getting so numerous it is no uncommon thing to see three or four deer in the park early in the morning. It is believed that they come from John D. Rockefeller's estate.

GOVERNOR ASKED TO OUST M'CALL

When he was informed that charges were to be made against him, he issued this statement: "I shall not make any statement. I shall state a signed, sworn statement, if it becomes necessary, in any proper place, before proper authorities. I will say all that is to be said."

McCall now stands unbacked by his former friends in Tammany Hall. The Democratic members of the Thompson committee, in the vote taken yesterday morning on whether charges should be made against him, refused to come to his aid. Every vote cast in this executive conference was cast against him. Tammany is said to be anxious to rid itself of the conspicuous target for general and increasing criticism.

It is understood that the Public Service chairman will be given from ten to twenty days in which to make his defense. Very probably Governor Whitman will permit him to offer explanation personally at the same time that Merton E. Lewis, Deputy Attorney General and counsel to the committee, who has been chosen to present the committee's case to the Governor, argues for McCall's removal.

acted is accounted for by the fear that friends of the accused man might try to work a mass play of influence on Mr. Whitman. He was Paul E. Atkinson, treasurer of the Kings County Electric Light, Heat and Power Company, who testified that the Edison Electric Illuminating Company of Brooklyn's Kings County subsidiary had bought in the 122 remaining shares of the Amsterdam Electric Light and Power Company under the permission granted by the Public Service Commission on July 30, 1914.

Mr. Atkinson, on answering this one question, was excused. The members of the committee then went into executive conference. Senator Robert R. Lawson, of Brooklyn, opened the proceedings by moving that a resolution be adopted authorizing the committee to draw up charges against McCall and submit them to the Governor. A vote was immediately taken. Senator Foley and Assemblyman Donohue, Tammany men, refused to vote. Assemblymen Kincaid and Baxter and Senator Towne, all Republicans, were absent, and their proxies were given to Senator George F. Thompson, chairman of the committee, to cast. The others present, including Assemblyman Feinberg, Republican, and Assemblyman Burr,

Illinois Bride Succeeds Montclair Wife
Who Preferred Horses and Dogs.

William E. Marcus, Jr., of Montclair, whose wife left him in the summer of 1912, after expressing her preference for horses and dogs and a decided aversion to her husband, was married again last night. His bride was Miss Cora Virginia Carpenter, of Evanston, Ill., at whose home in that city the ceremony was performed. The Rev. Dr. Edward C. Boynton, of Ann Arbor, Mich., officiated.

Mr. Marcus obtained a divorce from his first wife a year ago. Last summer she was married to Bernard H. Jackson in England. Among those who went from Montclair to Evanston to attend the wedding were the bridegroom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Marcus, and his sister, Miss Dorothy Marcus.

U. S. MISSIONARY DEAD BY POISON

Mysterious Death of Agent for Prisoners in Mesopotamia
Reported by Envoy.

Boston, Nov. 12.—The death by poison of the Rev. Francis H. Leslie, of Northport, Mich., a missionary stationed at Orfa, Asiatic Turkey, was announced to-day by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions. Ambassador Morgenthau, who notified the State Department at Washington of the death, reported that he was making a thorough investigation to determine responsibility.

The Rev. Mr. Leslie, who had been acting as an intermediary for 300 British, French, Italian and Russian refugees who were interned at Orfa, had been appointed consular agent by the United States to facilitate his handling of monthly allowances sent to the interned persons, but the Turkish government had refused to recognize the appointment, according to the Rev. James L. Barton, secretary of the American board.

Mr. Leslie had been the only missionary at Orfa, which is a remote station in North Mesopotamia, on the Arabian border, since 1912. The station included the extensive industrial plant, employing several thousand persons.

"JEW BARNEY" FREED; COURT CHIDES JURY

"I Am Glad I do Not Share Your Responsibility," Says Judge.

After being out twenty-four hours a jury before Judge Malone in General Sessions yesterday acquitted Bernard Corn, alias "Jew Barney," of the charge of murdering Charles Miller, night clerk at the Hotel Atlan, 159 West Thirty-fourth Street, last March. The principal witness against Corn was his "pal," Joseph Bourret, alias "Murray," who confessed that he was an accomplice, but didn't fire the shot.

"You are discharged for the term. I am glad I do not share your responsibility for this verdict," said Judge Malone to the jury.

"You are discharged," remarked the court to the defendant.

Throughout his trial, which lasted a week, Corn never showed a sign of concern. During Thursday night, when the jury went out, he stood beside his keepers, sang and danced. When he heard the verdict he dropped into his seat and asked for water.

Corn testified that he was present when a fight started between "Murray" and Miller and that "Murray" killed Miller.

WILL BRING OCEAN NEARER

Mayor Approves Proposed Boulevard to Rockaways.

For the purpose of bringing the Atlantic Ocean twelve miles nearer to the heart of Manhattan, it was announced at a recent meeting of the Rockaway Park Citizens' Association that Mayor Mitchell has approved of the proposed boulevard to be built from the mainland across Jamaica Bay to the Rockaways.

It is understood that plans have been transmitted to Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer of the Board of Estimate, and that the project is now in the hands of the city engineers for the opening of negotiations with property owners along the proposed route and getting them to cede land to the city for the proposed boulevards without the necessity of condemnation proceedings or the paying for property taken. It is estimated that the boulevard will cost about $1,000,000, and when completed it is predicted that it will become one of the city's best boulevards to the ocean.

Democrat, voted, and the result showed that every vote cast was in favor of the charges.

The secret meeting lasted twenty minutes. At its conclusion Senator Thompson dictated this statement:

"The committee on executive session have voted in relation to a motion made that upon the evidence before this committee the committee deem it their duty to present the record in the case of the state, and do that to-day so far as it relates to the misconduct in office or neglect of duty of Commissioner McCall. This action was taken upon a motion by Senator Lawson, the vote being as follows: The chairman, Senators Lawson and Feinberg, and Assemblymen Kincaid, Baxter, Feinberg and Burr voting in the affirmative; Senator Foley and Assemblyman Donohue, present but not voting, and Senator Mills having resigned from the committee, absent, and Assemblyman McQuinn not being present, he being out of the state and not being able to get into communication with him."

From 16th Broadway the members of the sub-committee went to the rooms of Deputy Attorney General Lewis, in the Murray Hill Hotel, and got to work on the report. They had a first draft finished by 9 o'clock but would not release it for publication, as explanation being made that Mr. Lewis wanted to go over it before it was given publicly. At 9 o'clock, then, revised, should be given out in this city, one of the members remarking that the release should come from Governor Whitman. Finally, however, it was decided that, inasmuch as Mr. Whitman would not get back to Albany until to-day, at the earliest, it would be judicious to adhere to the original plan and make the report public last night.

It is felt that the Governor cannot do otherwise than to establish a fact in the face of the indictment which has now been drawn against him. Last spring, when his removal was recommended by the Thompson committee, after a number of hearings in this city, McCall was retained in office.

Governor Silent on McCall; Guest at Dunkirk Dinner

Dunkirk, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Governor Whitman was the guest of honor at a dinner given by the Dunkirk Chamber of Commerce to-night. He spent the night here as the guest of ex-Assemblyman Henry K. Williams. The Governor will discuss with the Board of Trade tomorrow, the possibility of establishing a state fish hatchery at Dunkirk. He will leave for Jamestown at noon.
